A founding partner of LMMW Group Ltd., Chad brings senior-level executive leadership experience in the technology, manufacturing and construction industries. His diverse business experience began in international exporting and manufacturing where he developed new operations, sales and distribution channels in key American, European and Asian markets.

With a demonstrated successful track record introducing new products and services to competitive markets, Chad has an entrepreneurial approach to business that focuses on client experience, partner relations, branding and operational excellence to achieve results.

As a senior leader and former business owner in the telecommunications sector, Chad's skills navigating regulatory requirements, implementing complex technologies, managing project teams and responding to constantly evolving client requirements helped his company win key projects, including one of the largest VoIP deployments in Canada.

As a Board Director and past Chairman of the Board of the Construction Association of Nova Scotia, Chad has chaired multiple committees providing leadership in governance, training, technology innovation and finance. As government and industry relations chair, Chad played a key role liaising with all levels of government and industry partners on behalf of CANS members from multiple sectors of the construction industry.

ROLE IN LMMW PROJECTS

Chad provides management leadership and advice as it relates to the suite of LMMW Group Ltd's energy and facility services, including condition inspections, maintenance programs, technology services, project oversight, client experience (marketing) and ensuring overall operational excellence.
